

McGuire's LIA article – January 20, 2011

David Carr, owner of McGuire's Hearing Aids and Audiological Services (www.mcguireshearing.com), has worked closely with hearing-impaired populations for years. Dave is both a hearing specialist and a committed volunteer donating his time and financial support to help hearing impaired individuals with limited resources.

So it was no surprise to Dave when his 15-year old daughter Krysta decided to follow in his footsteps and lend her own support to the same cause.

In November, Krysta launched her company, Krysta's Kreation, to support the Foundation for Sight and Sound, through the sale of knit caps that she creates by hand herself.

The Foundation for Sight and Sound (www.foundationforsightandsound.org) is an organization that helps to support visually- and/or hearing-impaired populations with limited resources.

“Krysta has seen firsthand the difference one can make in giving to others. She is a fourth generation participant in the worthy effort of helping others to hear. In each cap that Krysta knits, she sees the possibility of donations to the Foundation so that those who cannot hear today may hear tomorrow. She sees how much it means to bring these children and adults into the hearing world. It's a life-changing experience for them and for us,” he concluded.

Krysta's caps are hand-knit, and she offers toddler, child or adult sizes, in a variety of colors, for just $10, plus $2 shipping and handling. For more information or to order caps, log onto www.mcguireshearing.com and click on the link specifying Krysta's Caps.
